

Complaints Procedure Reviewed annually – next review: July 2022

The Staff, Leadership and Trustees of Bromley Trust Academy accept that no establishment is immune to mistakes and it is important to hear from all stakeholders who use the services of the Academy when it is felt that mistakes have been made. The following process outlines how complaints should be made, however we would always encourage parents to raise concerns or worries they may have with their child's class teacher at the earliest opportunity possible:

Complaints made to the Clerk of the Trust Board will be passed to the Chair who may attempt to resolve the complaint directly or, if it is felt necessary, through discussion with the entire membership of the Trust Board.

If complaints are of a serious nature and are not resolved within the school, then complaints may also be made directly to the Office for Inspection of Schools (OFSTED) either through written communication or by accessing their website.
